

LA MAMA PRESENTS THE WORLD PREMIERE SEASON OF INCOGNITO!

as a part of the melbourne international comedy festival 2021

How do you find a killer when everyone is in disguise?

Fans of a good old-fashioned comedy whodunnit should put Incognito! at the top of their must-see list for 2021's Melbourne International Comedy Festival. A play that effortlessly blends witty one-liners with farce to create a dazzling and nostalgic celebration of the mystery genre.

Incognito! offers audiences a much-needed escape into the glamorous and heightened world of classic detective fiction - a world of martinis, clever banter, suspicious characters and intrigue.

Here we meet the most unlikely duo of investigators - Vera Brady is sophisticated, urbane and charmingly sarcastic. When she comes under suspicion of murder while attending an isolated health spa, the only way to clear her name is to solve the case herself. Vera's 'Watson' is her bumbling ex-husband, who is hopelessly stupid and desperately trying to win her back. Audiences were introduced to these characters in 2019's Denouement! and like Poirot or Miss Marple, they have found themselves embroiled in a brand new thriller.

From the makers of Mystery Radio Theatre, Man Bites God and Theatre of the World.

'a delightful cross between an episode from an old detective series, a Monty Python sketch, and a game of Cluedo.' – Weekend Notes

'entertainingly and wittily subverts the genre of 'whodunnit... a surreal journey that only builds in ludicrousness. The script is witty and fresh, keeping the audience guessing...' – Theatre Travels

'a deliciously satisfying whodunnit...' – The Dialog
