

LA MAMA PRESENTS A NEXT TUESDAY PRODUCTION OF

YOU'RE NO GOOD

WRITTEN AND CREATED BY CAT HOLDER AND MELINA WYLIE

When the one you loved most, is the one who fucked you up the most, where do your memories take you?

After another night on the booze, Linda wakes up on the couch when an unexpected visitor arrives; it's her Mother Alice, but this time she's in a bag.

You're No Good showcases the comedy in the messy and complex mother/daughter relationships, and the grief that follows in the legacy of a parent's death. Where do we find relief? Is it in our memories? Is it in what made us laugh and cry? Or is it screaming into a pillow?

Creator and Performer Melina Wylie says "I've always been interested in the mother daughter relationship, but it wasn't until after mum died, that I could laugh about how chaotically comical mothers and daughters can be with each other. Losing a parent can cause a different sort of grief, and we hope this work will allow audiences to understand what it's like to grieve if they haven't already, embracing its messiness and ugliness and joy."

You're No Good is Holder and Wylie's debut collaboration under their new company Next Tuesday Theatre. Developed through La Mama Explorations and Geelong Arts Centres and Performing Lines Creative Engine Artist Residency with mentoring from Susie Dee, You're No Good is a physical dark comedy combining clowning and storytelling that will make you laugh, cry and feel guilty for not calling your Mum.
